THF BRIEFING

A Message from Matt Stevens, CEO

To everyone in the THF Network, I hope you and your families are in good health and in great spirits as our nation slowly emerges from a year long “pandemic deployment” and returns to some sense of normalcy, in-person gatherings, and reunions with loved ones.

The past six months have been one of transition and tremendous growth at THF. We have welcomed several new staff members, embraced a few shifts within the team, and said farewell to a couple special individuals. But with change comes opportunity and we’re excited to have Janie Livesay step into the role of VP of Programs & Curriculum and Michael “Halty” Halterman transition to the VP of Operations position, along with welcoming Lindsey Schiro, Jessica Hunt, Hillary Hays, Ryan Nixon, J.P. Tuthill and AI Paxton to the THF team.

Our small but mighty team has been working tirelessly behind the scenes to prepare for the launch of our next THF campus: FORT BRAGG!! I am thrilled to officially announce that THF will be expanding to Fort Bragg this fall to serve the Army SOF community, with an in-person cohort in Southern Pines, NC at Sandhills Community College and The Brief Labs HQ. Stay tuned for more details as we continue to expand our reach across the nation.

Also, what better way to celebrate our 7-year anniversary this year than hitting a THF milestone -- over 1,000 graduates of the full THF Program (1,049 to be exact)!

To all of you who have invested in our mission and those that we serve: THANK YOU! Thank YOU -- partners, donors, faculty, coaches, mentors, alumni, staff and supporters -- for standing by our side and giving us the power to continue our mission to serve the Special Operations community with honor, for life!

With honor and respect,

Matt Stevens
THF CEO

“The Honor Foundation helped me overcome my fear and anxiety about leaving the military in the midst of a pandemic.”

Welcome to the THF Board of Directors

Jerome King,
THF Board of Directors

Jerome King is a Marine Veteran and THF Alumni. He is an Associate Director at UBS, specifically within the Investment Banking Global Research team based out of Manhattan, New York.

Jerome was born and raised in Australia. He enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in 2009 initially as a rifleman in 7th Marine Regiment in Twenty nine Palms, CA; where he became a Scout Sniper, earning the MOS in 2010. In 2011, Jerome attended assessment and selection for Marine Forces, Special Operations Command (MARSOC), and subsequently graduating the training pipeline in 2012, where he was stationed aboard Camp Lejeune, NC. As a Marine Raider, Jerome deployed multiple times in support of the Global War on Terror to the Sahel and Maghreb regions of Africa, holding a multitude of billets and experienced an array of complex problems that were largely unknown to the outside world.

Jerome enrolled in THF in early 2018 while he was transitioning out of the Marine Corps, attending sessions both at Virginia Beach and the inaugural Virtual Campus as his schedule permitted. He credits THF with changing his perspective, teaching him that the skills he had built up as a Marine Raider were in high demand in the civilian world. His “Why” is: “To do what’s necessary so others can find their path.”

“This program is an absolute must for any SOF professional who wants to actively navigate their transition. The Team concept that made us so successful in Service is the THF cornerstone in building and discovering your future potential.”

WE’RE COMING FOR YOU, FORT BRAGG!

The Next Course: Fort Bragg -- Event Recap

On May 6, we held a special THF event at Southern Pines Brewery, The Next Course, to introduce The Honor Foundation to the Fort Bragg community. The evening centered around connections -- connecting with the THF Team, Fellows and Alumni and members of the Tribe -- coaches, mentors and employer partners -- to share our mission with those in attendance and that we’ve expanded to serve the Army SOF community.

Thank you to our generous sponsor, the USGA, and to Kimberly Gallo, Head of People, for your belief in our mission and for your outreach efforts to get our Fellows hired. We’re excited to have you as a THF advocate and look forward to collaborating with you again soon!

To the Wounded Warrior Project and the team at Global SOF Foundation, we are grateful for your continued support as we embark on this adventure, and to Southern Pines Brewery for being a great host for the evening.

Stay tuned for more events in the coming months as we prepare to open our fifth campus! If you’d like to get involved, please contact Lindsey Schiro at: lindsey.schiro@honor.org

Our first cohort will begin on August 30 to serve the transitioning members of the Army Special Operations Forces (ARSOF) in the Fort Bragg community.

THF has been given the warmest welcome since the beginning of this new adventure and we could not be more elated to be working with some of the best organizations and individuals as we continue our expansion to a new campus.

a comfortable environment for lectures and breakout sessions, and allows the opportunity to connect with other professionals who are also working in the space.

Thank you Blue Mind Coworking for welcoming The Honor Foundation into your home and for supporting the military community.

Visit honor.org/contact for more information.

“Embrace the process as you go through the program and realize that its ok to not know exactly what it is you want to do. The staff at THF as well as those who graciously volunteer their time are there to help you be successful in whatever it is you decide to do next.”

– Michael, THF Alumni

CONNECTIONS OUTSIDE OF THE CLASSROOM

THF Virtual Treks

THF Treks are one of the pillars of our Program -- an opportunity for Fellows to immerse themselves in various companies and organizations to learn about culture, operations and a variety of industries. This fall, we tried something new -- virtual treks! With the coordination of numerous Zoom rooms, webinar platforms and tech-savvy teams, Fellows in our Program across all THF campuses were able to participate in this virtual field trip and create new connections to help with their transition after active duty service.

We cannot be more grateful to all the individuals and companies who helped make these virtual events a success for the Fellows across all THF campuses:

Johnson & Johnson, The Brattle Group, Red Hat, Stryker, Freeform, STIHL, Amazon, SAS, National Speed, COX Communications, and Avantus. We sincerely appreciate your valuable time, efforts and continuous support of THF and the military community.

THF Joins Moore County Chamber of Commerce

The Honor Foundation has recently joined the Moore County Chamber of Commerce to expand our connections in the community to better serve Fellows of our program.

The Moore County Chamber of Commerce is “an advocate for the business community in Moore County, North Carolina. The programs & events offered, provide extraordinary opportunities to help your business prosper in an ever changing business climate. With a mission to ‘Foster a Vibrant Business Community’, the Moore County Chamber is comprised of a dynamic and evolving membership of business leaders. Stepping up and out, the Moore County Chamber is here, after 50 successful years, to promote economic strength in Moore County, NC.”

We look forward to working closely with the Chamber as we launch our new Fort Bragg campus later this year.

Cargill + THF

FUEL FOR OUR MISSION:

THF's Swim for SOF Event

The Honor Foundation is excited to announce its first-ever Swim for SOF event in San Diego, presented by Surefox!

THF will host its own charity swim across the Coronado Bay -- from the beach near Hotel Del Coronado to Tidelands Park to the USS Midway Museum, and a celebration afterward at the InterContinental Hotel.

Jason Goyanko, THF Alumni and the Swim for SOF Race Director, is collaborating with the THF team and other volunteers to bring this unique opportunity to San Diego.

"The Swim for SOF event will benefit the next generation of warriors transitioning out of the military and put the spotlight on all veteran initiatives. Ensuring a successful transition of these heroes will create servant leaders of tomorrow in our businesses, communities, and our nation."

Participants of the swim will include THF Alumni: U.S. Special Operators who have completed The Honor Foundation Program and have transitioned into their next career after active duty service. These outstanding men and women are fundraising to help support future Fellows of the program as they begin their own journey in finding their next mission in life.

We are also welcoming military supporters from around the nation to join in the swim and festivities, to commemorate the 20th Anniversary of 9/11 and unite in patriotism across the county.

Registration is now open to the public!

MY CAREER TRANSITION:

From the Navy to Carrington Mortgage Holdings

I didn’t have the normal Navy life. Spending 22 years as an Operations Specialist, my career started out that way with over six years on my first ship. Then after shore duty, I ended up in Bahrain for 15 months and then with EOD (Explosive Ordnance Disposal) working with Unmanned Underwater Vehicles.

I spent the last six years in the Navy with the Navy Special Warfare community -- and I felt lucky to end my career that way, with that experience.

It was my last tour that introduced me to The Honor Foundation and provided the opportunity for me to be a part of it. I knew it was a great program but hesitant to do all the extra work that was involved. However, I kept an open mind and was thankful that I did.

I was hooked from the first day of class, and now, could not imagine had I not gone ahead and applied. The content, the resources, the people -- my coach, the faculty, the THF Team, Fellows in my cohort and the Alumni -- exceeded my expectations in all aspects and provided constant support in every way possible. I am afraid of where I would be at this time if I had not gone through THF. But it is the organization’s connections and network that helped me land the amazing job that I have now. A fellow teammate that had been in the cohort before mine and had landed a position with Carrington Mortgage. I was excited for her but not excited about real estate and mortgages.

Bruce Rose, the CEO and Founder of The Carrington Companies, was the guest speaker for one of our classes and his words struck a chord with me. I was in awe of his story, and how much he does for active duty Military and Veterans, including his contributions to THF so the community can experience the program when preparing to leave service.

I could not email him fast enough to thank him for his time and what he does for the military. Immediately following his words of wisdom I felt full of gratitude, inspiration and optimism that leaders like him are out there. With a few laughs and email exchanges later, he requested a follow-up call. Again, I thought, I cannot picture my next career in mortgages or real estate, but I was not going to pass up the opportunity for this call with Bruce and the one-on-one time that he is investing in me. After a 45-minute conversation, he said he needed my senior leadership in his company. I was blown away...I was not expecting that. Introductions followed and after speaking with other members of the Carrington team, I learned about Project Management roles -- exactly what I was searching for as I transitioned. I ended up having an interview with the Chief Information Officer and a Senior VP of IT solutions, which is who the PMs work under.

I felt prepared during my conversations and interviews -- thanks to the preparation and coaching I received from THF. The Carrington team made me feel welcomed and valued from Day 1, especially Bruce who I cannot thank enough. I am currently on my third week with Carrington and could not be happier.

If it was not for THF, I would likely be still looking for a job and a company that I’d be honored to work for. Thank you THF -- my gratitude lies with you, Bruce and all those who helped me on my journey.

“Like everything, your THF cohort will go faster than expected, but the networks and relationships you build will last a long time. So network hard, take full advantage, reach out to people, and develop strong relationships that will follow you through your next career.”

– Fred, THF Alumni

This concept is ideal for recruiting, great for retention, and even better for the morale of those remaining in uniform.”

Members of the panel, with Congressman Mike Levin presiding, asked questions regarding the unique challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic on Special Operations Forces seeking to transition out of the military.

Stevens highlighted two critical factors most veterans face during transition: “Figuring out what they want to do next, how to talk about themselves, and develop their value proposition and personal narrative.”

The hearing, convened by the Subcommittee on Economic Opportunity, also featured testimony from several other nonprofits and organizations, administration officials from the Department of Defense and Department of Labor, and others.

The virtual hearing can be found here.

OUR NATION’S VETERANS

Efforts to Impact More Transitioning Military Veterans

On May 12, THF CEO Matt Stevens appeared before the House Veterans’ Affairs Committee, providing testimony during a congressional hearing on military transition amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

“The COVID-19 pandemic exacerbated the existing challenges and stressors presented to transitioning service members and increased the difficulty of executing a [transition assistance] program,” said Stevens during his opening statement to the committee. “A service member’s last act of service to our country while in uniform should be to have an exceptionally positive transition. [They] should set the example for all of those in the next generation, as this will reinforce the idea to all who follow that the military as an institution ‘has their backs.’”
